From the practitioner: What Patients Can Expect

If you have gone from doctor to doctor in search of answers for your chronic health condition, and have not found answers then I am here to listen and help you find it! Through the use of functional metabolic testing, I can look for the root cause and individualize a supplement and nutritional protocol to restore the impaired cells. I specialize in Clinical Biochemistry of the metabolic pathways and look for imbalances that cause underlying inflammation that is related to your illness or disease and develop an individualized plan to restore balance and function of the cells.
